Seeking To Collect $10,000 Back Taxes from Dunbar-Dukate Company

J. B. Gully, state tax collector, has appealed to the Harrison county circuit court from the refusal of the municipality of Pass Christian to approve a $10,000 back tax assessment over a two-year period against the Dunbar-Dukate Company's leasehold on certain property in Pass Christian as made by the city tax assessor at the direction of the state collector's office. The outcome of this unique suit will be watched with interest. It will establish certain points of authority seemingly in doubt.

World's Fair Facts.

Chicago, May 27.—Here are some facts about the Century of Progress Exposition, which opened Saturday: It represents and investment of $37,500,000 on the part of the fair corporation, exhibits and concessionaires.

It is a show case covering 424 acres and has 82 miles of free exhibit, valued at $6,000,000.

There are 1200 buildings on the exposition grounds.

The visitor can get about the fair city on land, water or in the air, by bus, wheel chair, motorboat, or gondola, and over the lagoon in rocket cars of the "sky ride."

Fair officials estimate that it will require three weeks for the visitor to thoroughly see all its displays.

Construction was financed with no taxation and no drain on any public funds.

It was four years in the making.

Two hundred and three stalwart young men from various sections of the country will reach Bay St. Louis, this Friday morning at 5 o'clock, disembarking from Louisville & Nashville R. R. Train.

Enlisted for Six Months.

These men are enlisted for United States forestry work and are enlisted for six months, receiving $30.00 per month for their services, including care, $25.00 of which is mailed monthly from headquarters to their immediate dependents and the balance will be given them for spending money.

40,000 Pounds Baggage.

Along with the men, occupying five coaches on the regular train, 40,000 pounds of baggage is carried. This includes tents and other necessary paraphernalia. Reaching here the men will be met and taken at once to their ultimate destination, U. S. Forestry Camp, P-52, at Catahoula, a point situated on the Nacaise road, 2 1/2 miles out from Kiln and 16 1/2 miles from Bay St. Louis.

Officered by Commissioned Men.

There will be one regular U. S. Army captain and two commissioned lieutenants and probably two or three regularly enlisted men. The train left Pensacola last night at 9 o'clock.

County to Transport Men.

Through the courtesy of President Emilio Cue of the Board of Supervisors, and his associates, county school buses will meet the men and carry them to the camp site. The men will set to work at once building quarters and soon thereafter, it is said, will enter upon their task in reforestation and general work. They will be here for, at least, a five-month period. Possibly other quotas will follow later.

BAY CITY SUMMER RESIDENT RECEIVES HONORARY DEGREE

Col. Henry G. Hester Given Degree of Doctor of Law By Tulane University

Col. Henry G. Hester, who retired as head of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, 1932, received degree doctor of law at the annual commencement exercises of Tulane University Wednesday morning of this week at Municipal Auditorium, along with Prof. Ellsworth Woodward, director of art of Newcomb for nearly a half century.

Of Col. Hester, well-known summer resident of Bay St. Louis season after season, the Morning Tribune says:

Colonel Hester became secretary of the New Orleans exchange in 1871, and, according to the Tulane announcement, "the two literally grew up together." "One became the greatest of its kind in the world and the other the greatest statistical authority of the staple wherever it was grown or traded."

"It has been said that Mr. Hester never owned a bale of cotton, spot or future, in his life. Yet he achieved a masterpiece of knowledge of the staple never surpassed by developing a statistical system by which daily, weekly and annual figures of astounding accuracy were made available all over the world, the announcement stated."

Retired at 86

"Mr. Hester at the time of his retirement last year was 86. He is now secretary emeritus of the exchange. To describe Colonel Hester, this brief but to the point summary comes from one:

"Cotton is the basis for prosperity in the South. It was the advance in cotton prices after our Civil war, which caused our great South, land to rise to unexpected heights."

"Colonel Hester's cotton figures are accepted as authority all over the world. His carryover estimates of the staple are considered the nearest correct of any. He is therefore an international figure and a foremost citizen of our city and state."

"He is a venerable gentleman, possessed not only with a brilliant mind, but also with a fine character."

President William S. Dowell of the New York exchange praised Mr. Hester's life "as six decades of outstanding achievements that will stand as a record long to be remembered."

The municipality of Pass Christian was named defendant in damage suits filed at Gulfport last Thursday.

Three suits filed by members of the family of A. G. Favre, were the outgrowth of an automobile accident at Pass Christian April 20, when the Favre car was said to have crashed into a pole after skidding on the pavement.

Mrs. Favre, who claims to have suffered injuries about the head and body, seeks $5000 in one of the suits, and Udell Favre, a minor, is plaintiff in a $1500 suit brought by A. G. Favre, as her father. Favre, who was not riding in the automobile, seeks $500 in a county court suit for damages to the car. The plaintiffs claim slippery condition of the roadway was responsible for the accident.

The accident occurred at a point on the beach boulevard separating the east end entrance to the Miramar Hotel and Dr. Robertson dwelling. It is pointed out that the surface of the road at that point is dangerously slippery and accidents occur there repeatedly because of this unremedied condition.

Another Suit Filed

Alleging that he suffered a broken back and other serious injuries when he fell a distance of 60 feet while employed as a laborer on the Federal Soldiers' Home at Biloxi last October, Tony Lafontaine seeks $75,000 in suit filed in the chancery court against T. A. Pittman, Inc., of New Orleans, by whom he claims he was employed, and the National Construction Company, general contractors on the project. The plaintiff claims that he is paralyzed from his waist down as a result of the fall.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 6.—Pennsylvania's state beer tax is producing $20,000 daily in new revenue, the department of revenue reported today.

HARRISON FACES BIG FIGHT

Hardest of His Career—Will Carry Debate to Senate Floor Administration Bill

A press telegram from Washington says that Pat Harrison, the hefty senator from Mississippi, is facing what veterans of congress predict will be one of the hardest fights of his long career on Capitol Hill.

As chairman of the finance committee, he intends to carry to the floor of the senate the disagreement which arose in committee on the administration's big measure for control of industry. The bill also carries provisions for a $3,300,000,000 public works program, involving needed revenues of around $225,000,000 a year.

In thus moving the debate to the senate floor, Harrison will be taking it to a field in which he is highly expert. Debate long has been recognized as his forte.

It was his gift for genial irony that won Harrison his first spurs in Washington. He has been in and around the national capital for 21 years, having been sent to Washington first in 1911 as a member of the house. After four terms there he was elected to the senate, and re-elected twice.

Harrison's specialty used to be sticking verbal darts into republican cans. When he rose with a roughish twinkle in his eye and began to shoot shafts at the opposition, the word "Pat Harrison is after them again" would empty the cloakrooms, bringing members trooping to their seats and laymen into the gallery.

It was typical of the man that his sharpest wit brought laughter from friend and foe alike and frequently from his victims, even as they writhed.

Today he seems a bit calmed down to those who remember his earlier days. For one thing his work has become increasingly important as the senate seniority rule has boosted him into higher places. He inherited the finance committee chairmanship through operation of that rule.

He'll be 62 next August.

BEER FOR MISS. NOW OBJECTIVE

Citizens Organize and Will Seek 150,000 Signatures For Beer and Repeal

Nine groups of Mississippi citizenry have combined in an effort to have the State of Mississippi vote in favor of repeal of the prohibition law and legalization of 3.2 percent beer, according to information from Jackson.

The action was taken late Tuesday in a meeting in which the Mississippians represented organized into a group to be known as the United Council for Prohibition-Repeal and Legalization of Beer in Mississippi.

Sidney W. Johnston of Vicksburg, was elected president of the organization; Walter Reed, of Gulfport, first vice president; A. E. Causey, Meridian, second vice president; C. D. Winter, Jackson, third vice president and Mrs. J. E. Franklin of Jackson, secretary.

Mr. Reed issued a statement saying that the primary object just now would be to obtain 150,000 signatures to petitions requesting Governor Conner to call the legislature into extra session to act on the congressional resolution for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and a proposal to legalize beer in the state.

Organizations represented at the Jackson meeting were: The Crusaders of Mississippi, Mississippi Women's Organization for Prohibition Repeal, Mississippi Travelers' Association, Mississippi Hotel Association, Southern Restaurant Association, Mississippi Firemen's Association, United Commercial Travelers' Association of Miss., Mississippi Federation of Labor and the Voluntary Committee of Lawyers.

THE GOVERNMENT SHOULD ADVERTISE.

AFTER keeping up with various "relief" measures intended to benefit almost every conceivable economic activity in the nation, we have been somewhat intrigued by the failure of the government to anticipate, understand or provide for the exigencies facing the newspapers of the country.

There are few, if any, newspapers which have not been compelled to curtail production in the midst of the present economic debacle. They have faced serious revenue losses. Advertising has shown enormous declines in space used and, coupled with this has been a demand for a lowered rate. Subscribers have found themselves, in many instances, unable to continue their favorite papers, with resulting decline in circulation in many sections. Here, too, the publishers have found on expectation of reduced subscription rates.

The idea has occurred to us that the government, now launched upon a vast program of reorganization, aimed at no less a goal than the transformation of our entire social order, is dependent to a large degree upon adequate and full publicity for the success of its undertaking. While newspapers have been and are anxious to give as much space as possible to these activities of the government, they are, in many cases, unable to do so. Particularly is this true of the more than 10,000 newspapers published in the less-than-daily field and serving the vast population roughly described as the small town or rural element.

While the government has never undertaken a campaign of advertising in this country and the idea may strike some people as rather absurd, we point out that large corporations find it profitable to devote upward of million dollars each annually to general newspaper advertising. Obviously, the government could use advertising space profitably to acquaint its citizens with new legislation and other matters of public interest.

We will take up, for example, the proposed relief measures for farmers. The success of the government's plan depends upon reaching the individual farmer and the best method of reaching him is through the county newspaper that he reads. Certainly, an intelligently prepared advertisement, calling attention to the manner in which the farmer can take advantage of the measures set up to relieve him would make easier the utilization of the government's agencies. At present, we find a great deal of ignorance on the part of farmers generally as to what they may hope for in the way of loan relief.

While this is only one of many phases of government activities, it seems reasonable to suppose that the steady advertising of essential official information regarding the government and its activities, including its financial condition, would make for better citizenship and encourage a clearer understanding of all problems connected with their government.

THE GOLD CLAUSE.

WHEN the United States went off the gold standard an interesting question arose as to payment of various federal bonds which provided that payment should be made in gold coin of certain weight and fineness.

To solve the difficulty President Roosevelt requested and Congress has promptly enacted a statute providing that the payment of these obligations may be made in any money or currency which is legal tender. This means that holders of these bonds cannot insist upon gold.

There have been some who severely criticized this provision. Senator Carter Glass, Virginia, says it is "rank repudiation" and others confidently predict that the United States Supreme Court will declare the act unconstitutional as an impairment of contract.

From a practical standpoint, however, there is much to be said to support the presidential viewpoint. To insist that these particular obligations should be paid in one kind of money while others could be paid otherwise is to allow a certain class of creditors a privilege not enjoyed generally. President Roosevelt believes that the welfare of the American people as a whole is superior to any right enjoyed by a few.

The power of money has always exerted its influence upon national affairs. "Due process of law" and "sanctity of contract" have often been used to prevent financial and economic changes necessary with the altered conditions of a new day. The holders of government obligations should be patriotic and submit to necessary alterations, reflecting that it will be far better to assist the government than to have no government.

AN OLD STORY RETOLD.

A GENTLEMAN and wife from Los Angeles, Calif., who recently sold out business to retire passed through Bay St. Louis, en route to Mobile where the gentleman was to visit a relative. The couple en route spent a whole day lingering on the coast, much of which time was spent in Bay St. Louis. Finally and reluctantly they continued their journey on to the Gulf City. "Why do you come to California?" one queried. "You have a prettier country on this coast, vastly more attractive and delightful and our regret is that we cannot remain." An old story, but retold again.

PUBLIC IMPROVEMENT.

MAYOR G. Y. Blaize and councilmen are deservingly commending for the work they are directing with labor furnished by the Welfare Board, that is, cutting weeds and generally cleaning many vacant lots in and around the city. Such weed-ridden vacant spaces are a menace to safety and general health conditions; eye-sores and a blot to the mind and vision of visitors.

To use this labor costing the county and city tax-payers nothing is putting it to good use and Mayor Blaize and associates are doing well. The Echo wishes to call attention to another eyesore about the city, to which Mayor Blaize fully agrees, even though the unsightly instances we are about to cite do appear on private domain. That is where property has been partially destroyed by fire and the remaining charred portions stand as a poor advertisement that "Here was a fire—the owners failed to clear the debris." Like a black ghost, a gastly sentinel keeping watch over the scene of disaster. It is not necessary to proclaim it.

It might be well to have these various debris about the city removed, the land cleared and a site either ready to be built thereon or an invitation to someone to buy and build.

It appears as well the welfare workers might be put to good use if this labor be employed to remove the numberless unsightly stumps and barnacle-ridden pilings that seem to dot and mar the beach front of Bay St. Louis from one end to the other. Stumps and wreckage that tell where structures of other days have fallen prey to either time or neglect. To the visitor this is about the poorest advertisement and the biggest black-eye of this section. To accomplish this work would by no means be impossible. It is surprising how quickly it could be done. Only the permission of the property owner is required. And surely he or she would not refuse. We hope this matter in time will be acted upon. The Chamber of Commerce would back it.

SHORT-CUT AUTO ROUTE.

RECENTLY the Echo carried a story to the effect that work on construction of the short-cut New Orleans-Highway auto route, Old Spanish Trail, was rapidly in process of building; that great drudges were working full time and many men were diligently at their task. The work, it appears from parties who have visited, is by no means lagging. On the contrary, it is rapidly being pushed and all contract work, it is expected, will be completed before the allotted time.

This is gratifying in the extreme and is received as welcome news to one and all who expect to travel the route. To many who might never regularly travel over the route but to do so occasionally it will mean as much, for the betterment to accrue from this two-State public improvement for its general value will be inestimable.

Our greatest assets are climate and water, healthfulness and natural beauty, an ideal place in which to live. An ever-inviting place to visit and linger. With the short-cut distance will mean little, a saving in time and travel. Inducements self-appealing and it is reasonable to expect that thousands who might not visit here otherwise will come to our shores in the near future. Many will reside on the Coast with possibly business interests elsewhere.

It is interesting to note work on the short-cut is not delayed, generally the case in the majority of public work. But on the contrary, the work is ahead of contract time and will be finished in the not very distant future.

Building of the several iron bridges and of the road work are in process simultaneously.

WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH THE NEW CROP?

WITH graduation exercises the order of the day over the country hundreds of thousands of young men and women will be thrown upon their own resources and upon the world to seek their place in life. Under present conditions this will add many to the vast army of unemployed and create a situation more acute. Should they secure positions they will take the place of others in the majority of cases. The order of business has been to reduce the number of people employed in every phase of business pursuit. It is quite a problem facing the country. The only hope is that conditions will grow better to such an extent to not only absorb the some eleven or twelve million now unemployed but to make room for the new army of workers ready to face the world.

BETTER TO HELP IN THE TIME OF CRISIS.

THE disposition in Harrison county to fight the board of Supervisors because of "overhead operating expenses for which there seems to be no money, apparently has fallen flat. Naturally without results. A militant disposition towards any public body will not accomplish results where men serving the public are honest both in intent as well as in service. It appears there should be a more conciliatory disposition; to assist, to build, to commend rather than tear down. It is certain no set of executive officers serving the public are prone to disregard any remedy to adverse conditions. It would appear they are anxious to do well, to create better showing and to bring about desired results.

SEEK TO LOCATE POET.

IN 1910 a poem appeared in a California newspaper entitled, "Goin' Back to Kansas Bye and Bye," and the author's name was given as W. E. Wortman. Today, Richard W. Robins, president of an air-line, is looking for the poet in order to make his dream come true. Mr. Wortman, in his verse, advised his folk to "keep a weather eye upon the golden western sky" because he'd be "coming back to Kansas in an airplane bye and bye."

SAUNTERINGS From Where The West Begins.

By JOHN T. MEYERS
(For the Sea Coast Echo)

San Antonio, Tex., June 6, 1933.

MOTORING over San Antonio-Austin highway, a unique sight greets the eye of the tourist when approaching the little college town of San Marcos. At this point Mexican chalk statuary and pottery stands line both sides of the roadway for several miles distance. This is the only place in Texas where statuary makers are to be found in such number.

These merchants are Mexicans, who live in little huts nearby. Their English is interspersed with bits of Mexican language—including many hand gestures. The old wares are displayed on makeshift shelves, or strung in careless disorder beside the road. The brilliant sparkling of this ghastly white and rainbow-hued conglomeration arrests the attention and fancy of the passing motorist.

Chalk from which the statues are modeled is secured from abundant chalk mounds to be found nearby. Mexican statuary merchants need only the molds, paints, and brushes to start in business. The statues cover a vast range of subjects. Popular studies include: Long horn steer heads, horses, dogs, coyotes, Indian head plaques, frogs, cranes, rabbits, gay-colored dancing senoritas, and numerous others.

THE artistic appeal and value of the statues vary. Most Mexicans are naturally clever with paint and brush. The lesser talented often stray from color schemes designed by mother nature. Should the tourist take time to study the large collection at his disposal, some humorous combinations will be found. A yellow bodied horse may sport red ears, and have a coal-black mane and tail to boot.

What does it matter if the Mexican artist decides to dot a green steer with white specks? And what could be so terribly wrong about silvers the hoofs of this same steer to complete off color mix up? Mere details, senior, art must be served. The artist must have freedom of expression. Or do they call it temperment.

PRICES start at 15 cents for miniature statues of fighting roosters, bunnies, and other small objects. The larger statuary, some of life-sized proportions, range upward as high as several dollars.

The Mexicans who have been in business for any length of time soon learn the tricks and schemes that form part of the 'gyp the tourist' art. Native Texans, and residents familiar with Mexican customs do not pay first price asked. The average Mexican peon has many traits in common with the American Indian. He expects to barter with a prospective customer. A smattering of the Mexican language acts as a charm in bringing prices down to rock bottom level.

SAUNTERINGS has a confession to make. . . our hat . . . (we do sometimes wear one) refuses to fit our tousled head. Here is the reason why:

Our little 7-year-old daughter, Shirley Jean, pupil of Blessed Sacrament and Incarnate Word Academy received her full term report card. She has been promoted to the 4th grade, with a general average of 95. Shirley Jean is the youngest student in San Antonio to enter the 4th grade.

We know you will forgive a proud parent's outburst of pride. And may we add a bouquet for Shirley Jean's mother. . . She deserves credit for her unselfish devotion, and able guidance in managing the child's home study and training program.

MEMORIES of days when Indians roamed at large in southwest Texas are frequently refreshed in the minds of old, pioneer settlers with finding of arrow heads by farmers plowing fields in the ranchland section.

These arrowheads are made of flint rock. The type found hereabouts were used by the Comanche tribe, who gave the frontiersmen no end of trouble by their blood curdling massacres. Historians claim this section of the country was also visited by marauding bands of a strange tribe which lived along the San Antonio river. They are said to have been the only cannibalistic Indians in America.

JUST a short distance from the roaring din of a busy main street is located a mission house. About its quiet, restful interior there is an atmosphere of futility. . . Aged, broken, weary-eyed men sit reading discarded newspapers, or talking in hushed tones. Straggling, homeless youths loiter about the entrance, seeking only the offered free food and lodging—the soul saving formalities they accept as a matter of course.

Into this mission house walked a uniformed policeman. His loaded pistol holster presented a strange contrast to the rest of the surroundings. He nodded friendly greeting to others as he entered. Taking a seat on one of the crude benches used for prayer service, the officer solemnly bowed his head in prayer and meditation. For fully 10 minutes he remained thus. Silent and unmoved.

Perhaps this guardian of law and order was at some time forced to

WITH THE MOVIES AND FILM FOLKS

(For the Sea Coast Echo)

"Duck Soup" will be the name of the new Marx Brothers comedy to appear next fall.

"The Kingfish," a story about an unruly gentleman from the South, who upsets the even trend of politics will be the next vehicle for Edward G. Robinson.

Myrna Loy has been selected for the lead in "The Worst Woman in Paris." The story tells of her misadventures when stranded in a small Kansas town.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., plans to visit Europe shortly and may appear on the London stage before returning to this country.

A film dealing with the heroes of the news reel cameras is scheduled by RKO-Radio. It is, "Headline Shooters," with a cast including William Gargan, Frances Dee, Jack La Rue and Ralph Bellamy.

Will Roger's next picture is scheduled to be "The Last Adam," based on James Cozzen's novel of an old-fashioned country doctor.

Despite previous announcements to the contrary, James Dunn and Sally Eilers will be together in another picture, to be known as "Jimmy and Sally."

Margaret Sullivan, Broadway ingenue, has reported to Universal and will have the second leading role in Fannie Hurst's "Imitations of Life."

Frances Fuller appears in Paramount's "One Saturday Afternoon," in which Gary Cooper is featured. Much is heard of a carnival scene of thirty years ago which is expected to be the last word in realism.

Ruby Kellar of "42nd Street," and the unreleased, "Gold Diggers of 1933" is in the East with her husband, Al Jolson. In a few weeks, however, she will be back at the studio for another picture.

Paramount has gone outside of the studio for seven players in current productions because everyone of the company's 54 contract players is busy.

Mae West is writing her next, "I am no Angel," in which she will sing four songs, do a dance and stick her head in a lion's mouth.

TRUE sign of summer: Feeling the asphalt street give way like rubber beneath one's feet. Wow! If these bathing suits get any more abbreviated we'll be back to the Garden of Eden style.

AS this is written, James Mattern, intrepid airman of San Angelo, Texas, is somewhere over wide, dark expanse of the Atlantic Ocean. If successful in, escaping the watery clutches lurking below his droning plane, Mattern plans to land his "Century of Progress" in either Paris or Berlin. This spunky Texan is out to beat the record established by Post and Gatty in their round-the-world flight. Americans everywhere are wishing Mattern Godspeed in his perilous venture.

THE LOST PIECE.

Have you ever tried a jig-saw puzzle. You might find it hard to do, The pattern may elude you, And you'll become discouraged and blue.

Life is some what like that. It is made up of tiny parts, And when we find the lost piece, It brings comfort to our hearts.

This lost piece has a different name In each of our hearts, Some times it is hope or ambition, Or love may be one of the parts.

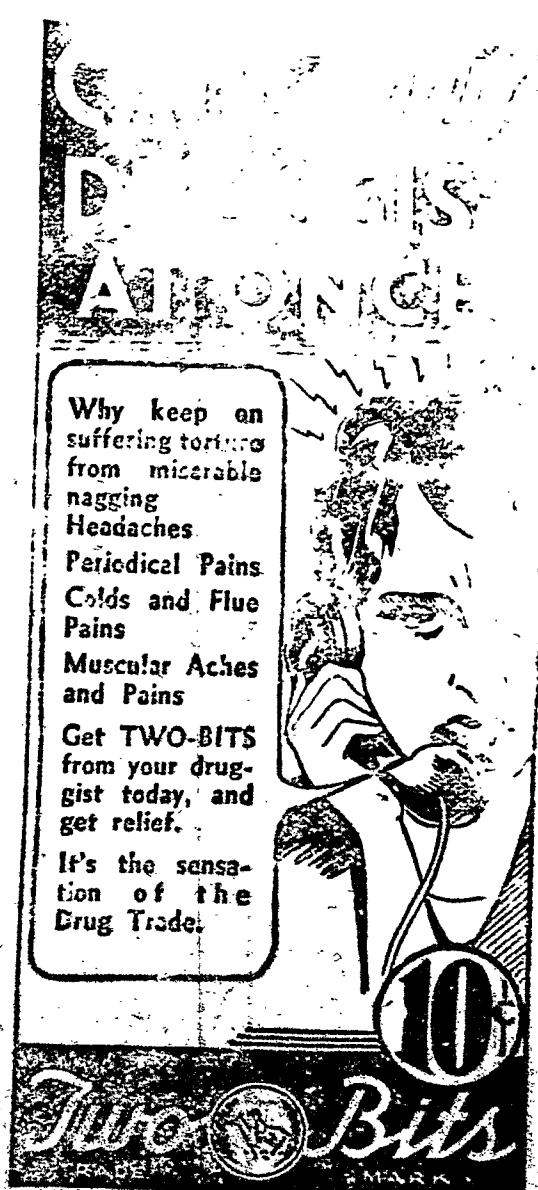

It may be ease, we're looking for, Or contentment we may seek, Some think, that with out pleasure This life is not complete.

Some times we grope in the dark This little, lost piece to find, And then we become confused, And bothered, and worried in mind.

But whatever it is we're looking for, Some day, we'll see it clear— Tho it is only a small fragment, It is some place very near.

Stop Chills and Fever!

Rid Your System of Malaria!

Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tasteless quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been sure relief for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any store.

OUTING AND PICNIC ON CAT ISLAND LAST SUNDAY FOR THE DAY

Some Forty-Five Guests Have Great Day on Waters Of the Sound and Isle Of Cats.

Cat Island was the scene of a most enjoyable picnic Sunday sponsored by Norton Haas and Mrs. Cleveland Wyatt. Sheriff T. E. Kellar's boat the "Blanche" and Captain John Puche's boat "Mammie K." were used to make the trip. The party left early Sunday morning from Kellar's wharf at the head of the seawall on Jordan river. A total of forty-five people attended.

On the way over to the island the crowd was entertained with old time dance music furnished by Olga Moran, Napoleon Moran and Melvin Hoda. The picnicers landed at the Goose Point Club wharf, and remained there for the day. When noon time arrived lunch was spread on the beach, with an abundance of good eats of all kinds. The remaining part of the day was spent in bathing, fishing, and dancing on the beach.

The party left Cat Island late in the afternoon and reached Bay St. Louis about nine o'clock that night. The outing was a success in every way and everyone attending is looking forward to another picnic on Cat Island at an early date.

The following made the trip:

John Moree, Mrs. J. P. Moree, Nola Rita Moree, Marcelle Moree, Herlihy Moree, Fred Herlihy, Mrs. Fred Herlihy, Miss Sophie Herlihy, Sam Haas, Mrs. Sam Haas, Mrs. H. P. Vinette, Mr. H. P. ## A Fable About Gold.

A LOT of people have been excited about America's going off the gold standard. They should read the financial fable written by Thomas F. Woodlock in The Wall Street Journal. The nations of the world had a uniform gold standard and a world bank was established to keep the world's gold, the story begins and then continues:

"There was chosen for this purpose a remote island in the Pacific which was impregnable fortified and provided with vaults of the strongest type protected by time-locks as arranged as to open only once a year, on December 31. All the world's gold was duly deposited in these vaults, and the island left to its garrison. Once a year the committee on inspection visited the island—no other visitors were ever allowed to land—and duly verified the presence of the gold. For years the world bank cleared the world's international business on the strength of this gold reserve which also secured the world's currencies.

"Finally, there came a year when the ship bearing the committee on inspection came to the spot where the island ought to be, and found no island.

"Some volcanic disturbance had wiped it out. What was it to do? "After prolonged debate it was determined by the committee that inasmuch as no occasion had ever required any withdrawals from the gold reserve and inasmuch as every one seemed satisfied so long as the reserve was there, the only thing to do was to certify its presence as usual, and see that every succeeding committee on inspection did the same thing. Which they did, and as the old story-books used to say, the world lived happily ever afterwards."

Visitor—What will you do when you are as big as your mother, Joan? Joan—Oh! Reducing exercises, I suppose.

COMMENT ON SPORTS SHERIDAN

Vines to Play Mrs. Moody to Europe

Ellsworth Vines, Jr., U. S. tennis champion, will represent this country in Davis Cup play against the other finalists in the North American zone. The Californian replaces Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, who played against Mexico. The other members of the team are Wilmer Allison, John Van Ryn and George M. Lott, Jr.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody has made up her mind to defend her English tennis title at Wimbledon this year but will not compete in any other country. Her decision to go to England was made suddenly and she will leave her California home this week in ample time to get set for the British tournament. Upon returning to this country, she will compete in the National championships at Forest Hills, N. Y.

Jimmy McClarnin made short work of Young Corbett on the Coast last week to win the welterweight title. Less than three minutes after the fight started, Corbett was out, although for two minutes of the only round, the champion made the Irish challenger look bad.

Louis Meyer, 29-year-old California driver, is now the second man to win the Indianapolis Speedway 500-mile Automobile race on Memorial Day. Meyer covered the distance in 4:46 for an average of 104.162 miles an hour. This broke the record of Freddie Frame made last year. Twice the racers had to slow down to a snail's pace while the track was being cleared of wrecked cars. Three men were killed and another was seriously injured.

The Davis Cup team was finally selected following the one-sided victory over the Argentinians at Washington. As expected it includes Ellsworth Vines, Jr., Wilmer Allison, John Van Ryn and George M. Lott. Lott's selection restores him to top rank. Two years ago he was number 2 in national ranking but last year fell to number 11.

Motor-Driven Train Travels 110 M. P. H.

New York—The Union-Pacific Railroad, with in six months, will answer bus and airplane competition by putting into operation a new type of stream-lined, light-weight, motor-driven passenger trains. It will have a maximum speed of 110 miles an hour and a sustained speed of 90 miles an hour.

The train, to cost $250,000, will consist of three cars, hinged together, with one truck between each two cars. It will be constructed of stainless steel or aluminum alloys and will weigh not more than an ordinary Pullman sleeping car.

W. A. Harriman, chairman of the Board says proper stream-lining will reduce power requirements more than one-half as compared with the ordinary shaped railway vehicle. The cars will be tubular in shape, with windows of shatter proof glass and other devices will be recessed.

Windows will be kept sealed and forced ventilation will filter dirt and dust from outside air, heat the train in winter and cool it in summer.

WOMEN'S CONTRIBUTION TO THE MOTOR CAR

There is some doubt that people care to hear very much about what goes on under the hoods of their cars.

The driver knows that "driving qualities" are not accidental; they are put there. How the manufacturer creates or evolves those results may not interest him. He judges entirely by the results he gets in driving.

Well, it is not essential to talk "shop"; let us talk Results.

Smoothness. Drive the Ford V-8 and you will find that the engine runs with surpassing smoothness, due to its design and the extra precise methods of its manufacture.

Power. There it is, 75 horsepower (we could say 80) at the drive-shaft for the driver's use. With less weight to pull around, the mettle of this car—its life-like response—is rather remarkable.

Economy. Our V-8 develops more power on a gallon of gasoline than any car we have made. Mileage is partly a matter of individual driving, but under average conditions the Ford V-8 does 17 to 20 miles a gallon. Of course, car economy is not only a matter of fuel. Ford V-8 has that too, but it is also economical in the complete sense—initial cost, operation, maintenance.

Appearance. This is woman's contribution. The motor car must not only be useful, but also good-looking. View the Ford V-8 and you will not need our comment on its fine appearance.

Comfort. This also is woman's concern. In 30 years she changed the motor car from a wagon to a coach. Comfort is a quality made up of numerous ingredients. There is no comfort without a quiet, smooth-running engine. We have all the other ingredients too,—color, good taste, quality, ease, safety, roominess and convenience.

Henry Ford

Relieves Women's Pains

Here is an example of how Cardui has helped thousands of women: "I was very thin and pale," writes Mrs. F. H. Scott, of Roanoke, Va. "I suffered from weakness and a severe pain in my back. This pain unnerved me, and I did not feel like doing my work. I did not care to go places, and felt worn, tired, day after day. "My mother had taken Cardui, and on seeing my condition she advised me to try it. I have never regretted doing so. I took three bottles and it built me up. I gained in weight, my color was better and the pain left my back. I am stronger than I had been in some time. Cardui is sold by local druggists."

"LOOKING FORWARD" STIRRING TALKIE BRILLIANTLY ACTED

Lionel Barrymore Makes Most of Intensely Human Role.

The invigorating acting of Lionel Barrymore, the discerning direction of Clarence Brown, and a film story which touches the hearts of the millions who have found their lives altered as a result of the world-wide depression, makes "Looking Forward," at the A. & G. Theatre this Sunday and Monday, one of the most profoundly stirring photoplays to reach the screen in some time.

It is reported that this picture, before being released to the general public, was unrolled at the White House before President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was so impressed by its inspiring story of hope and courage, that he permitted its producers, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer-Cosmopolitan to use the title of his recently acclaimed book, "Looking Forward," for the picture. This gesture will be easily understood by those who view the new film drama and are moved by its tremendously human theme.

Much of the effectiveness of this unusually fine talkie drama is due to the forceful direction of Clarence Brown who has permeated this story with the same distinctive touches that marked his work on such memorable photoplays as "Flesh and the Devil," "Anna Christie" and "A Free Soul."

Barrymore, in the starring role, is, as usual, touching and dramatically powerful, and another flawless performance is contributed by Stone as the aristocratic store owner. In fact, the entire supporting cast, including Benita Hume, Elizabeth Allan, Phillips Holmes, Colin Clive, Alec B. Francis, Doris Lloyd, Halliwell Hobbes, Douglas Walton, Viva Tattersall, Lawrence Grant, George K. Arthur, Charles Irwin and Billy Bevan, are deserving of the highest praise.

A TRIBUTE

Not many weeks ago, one of our good citizens passed from this fleeting world to his eternal reward. This gentleman, although he had lived in Bay St. Louis for many years, had not been seen outside of his own attractive habitation for nearly three years—at which time, his car stopped in front of the City Hall, while he filled out and handed to a courteous Election Manager the ballot tendered him for the city election then going on. This was the last time he was ever to exercise his right of suffrage, and there is every probability it was done both wisely and conscientiously by him.

It is obvious, from the above brief delineation of his life thus restricted from the usual social intercourse with his fellow men, that the subject of this sketch was a man prevented by reason of poor health or bodily weakness from leading an active, out-door life—in other words, that he was an invalid. And those few persons so fortunate as to have the pleasure of his acquaintance will quickly conclude that Mr. William W. Forwood is the man of whom we speak.

Mr. Forwood, a native of New Orleans, La., came to Bay St. Louis a few years before his retirement from the Railway Mail Service, and soon after his retirement, because of organic heart trouble, he settled down to the life of an invalid. For the first two or three years, he was able to walk around town and stop for an occasional chat with his friends. There are a few citizens here, who remember meeting him ever and anon on these occasions, and hearing him discuss the questions of the day or the affairs of the City in an interesting and sprightly manner. His physical powers, however, gradually began to decline and about four years ago he settled down to the life of a chronic invalid, seldom leaving his home. His faithful and devoted wife looked after his every comfort; so he had the best of care. From this time until the day of his death, this fine man, except at times when he was actually ill, faced life cheerfully and enjoyed the society of what few friends he had acquired during the short period of his active life here. He had a very active mind and was interested in all the live topics of the day. He appeared to enjoy everything in life worth-while there was for him to enjoy. He was an enthusiastic radio fan—his tastes being for the high type of musical, dramatic or sentimental offerings. He was good company, and it was a real pleasure for his friends to spend an occasional hour with him on evenings he felt well enough to receive company—which were quite frequent.

This scribe had not known him so many years, but he feels that he knew him well. He seldom discussed religious matters, but his views on moral questions were of the best. He appeared to despise graft and insincerity in public or private life. He had put his business affairs in good order and this fact, no doubt, helped to keep him cheerful as he faced the great Ordeal he had here long to meet.

Friends, if there was one thing in his life which impressed me more than anything else—and he had many good traits—it was his clean mind and his brave, cheerful outlook on the dark and unknown future. It took a brave heart to accept the inevitable with a winsome willingness like his to meet his fate—"Not as the Quarry slave at night, scourged to his dungeon, but like him, who wraps the drapery of his couch about him and lies down to pleasant dreams."

I feel privileged to pay this humble tribute, as a I sadly sign myself, HIS FRIEND.

WHO'S BLIND?

You have to go clean out-of-doors To see the green things growing. My stuffy study balks and bores Your spirit's overflowing.

He's in the quiet of my room, I sense the fields in flower. I breathe the breath of bud and bloom. I pulse with magic power.

The stir of Spring is in my soul. I need no clouds above me. My mind surveys a perfect scroll. My fancy-fairies love me.

You lift your eyes and glance around. Ten thousand splendors thrill you. There's glory in the sky and ground. Things seen alone can fill you.

I cannot single out a star. I cannot see the moonlight. But I can fetch from lands afar The joyousness of June-night.

My fancy peoples every place, In every kind of weather, With things of beauty and of grace, We dance and dine together.

There is no cloud in any sky. I build bright rainbow bridges. There is no tear in any eye. I roam enchanted ridges.

I see the sights I long to see. I find no homely faces. The corner-place is touched for me With fair-artistic traces.

I'm glad you have your out-of-doors. Your life would prove most tragic. I'm glad you miss each thing that bores—I wish you had my magic.

I wish you, too could turn to gold Each bit of brass about you. I wish your heart and mind could hold Fine thoughts and things that flout you.

Your eyes and what your eyes survey, These are your dearest treasures; But these, alas, are only clay, That pass like minor measures.

My world is wrought of sterner stuff. Your own is transitory. Who's game of life is blind's man bluff? God gives to each its glory.

—DAVID E. GUYTON
